

CHECK UP

Herald Sun (Australia) , 1 - FIRST ed , p 034
Wednesday , October 1, 2003

Journal Code: ABTE Language: English Record Type: Fulltext
Document Type: Newspaper Section Heading: Healthwatch

Net love trap

EXTRAMARITAL dalliances on the Internet could be as damaging to a marriage as a full-blown affair. US researchers found 22 per cent of couples who experienced an online infidelity by one partner ended up divorced or separated.

Sleepy calls

SWINBURNE researchers need volunteers for a study on the effect of mobile phones on quality of sleep. The study aims to detect whether mobiles' electromagnetic energy affects production of the melatonin hormone.

Call Associate Professor Andrew Wood on 9214 8867 or e-mail awood@swin.edu.au

Prostate talk

TV presenter Michael Schildberger and urology experts will give a free seminar on prostate cancer and its treatments at Epworth Hospital on Friday. Melbourne Pathology will provide free PSA (blood) tests to help detect prostate cancer for the first 50 men during lunch from 12.40pm at Epworth Auditorium, 89 Bridge Rd, Richmond.

For more information, call Juanita Fox on 9426 8504.

MEDIWEB

www.cmaa.org.au

Cardiomyopathy Association of Australia.

Information about and support services for people with heart muscle disease